Introduction

Many administrative changes are required when departments decide to restructure or re-align existing units or programs. Changes such as customer notification, financial reporting structure, relocation of people and/or equipment (including facility changes or additions), and management of technical support systems are necessary when realignment or restructuring of departments/units occurs. There is currently no central location of available resources where tasks and/or functions are collectively documented to assist with these types of transitions or changes.

The University of Michigan Business & Finance Leadership Academy sponsored a project team whose charge was to create a guide to assist units when facilitating department organizational changes. This document will serve as a guideline containing a collection of tasks and their resources, including helpful websites, email and telephone contact information.

There are different types of department organizational change. Here are some examples of past changes within the University:

- Merger (MAIS/ITCS/ITSS becomes ITS)
- Splitting one department into two or multiple departments (Engineering, Biology)
- Creating new departments or programs (future – Bio-Informatics in the Medical School)
- Closing departments (MStores)
- Creating a new school/building (Gerald R Ford School of Public Policy)
- Moving/absorbing a department or unit into a different reporting structure (Center for Statistical Consulting and Research)
- Department relocation/ move (MHealthy from South Industrial to Wolverine Tower)
- Departmental name change (HRAA to UHR – University Human Resources)

Department organizational changes result in administrative tasks from moving employees to notifying vendors and customers, regardless of the reason. This guide is designed in three tiers – the first tier lists the major areas of change, the second tier lists the associated tasks in those areas, and the third tier lists resources to help accomplish the tasks.

How to Use This Guide

This guide is organized by three key steps, each in a checklist format which can be used as a project plan to guide you through the applicable tasks. This is a Word document which can be edited and saved for your specific use, i.e. you may check the items that apply and delete the sections to create a customized plan.

This guide is intended to be used as an online tool. However, if one wants to print, it may be helpful to refer to the table of contents to find the pages numbers for each service area and its related tasks and resources.

The first checklist shows the major services areas and links you to associated tasks in that area. The second checklist (tier two) describes the tasks by major service area, and links you to the third checklist (tier three) of applicable resources for each task.
